Changes to Magyar Telekom's inflation-based fee adjustment

Budapest – April 9, 2025 – Magyar Telekom (Reuters: MTEL.BU and Bloomberg: MTELEKOM HB, hereinafter the “Company”), the leading Hungarian telecommunications service provider, hereby announces that as opposed to the earlier announced, in 2025 it will not implement inflation-based fee adjustment for its consumers.

On January 16, 2025, the Company announced that it will implement inflation-based fee adjustment as of April 1, 2025, amounting to 3.7%. Taking into account the Hungarian economy's developments and the governmental measures aimed at limiting the inflation, the Company decided not to implement the earlier announced inflation-based fee adjustment for its consumers whilst it will also refrain from the implementation of any unilateral price increase or inflation-based fee adjustment for at least the end of the first half of 2026. The Company will modify the rules of the inflation-based fee adjustment in its respective general terms and conditions accordingly.

The Company expects that thanks to the above measure its services will become available to increasing number of customers.
